CSIA adds first Chinese member

March 3, 2010, MADISON, Wis. – Hollysys, headquartered in Beijing, China, has joined Control System Integrators Association (CSIA) as a partner member. Jack Yu, international business director for the company, will be attending the 2010 CSIA Executive Conference April 29 – May 1 in Seattle.

While CSIA has a number of international members, Hollysys is the first company based in China to join the organization. CSIA Executive Director Bob Lowe says Hollysys is the first of what the association hopes will be many more Chinese members.

“Automation vendors, such as Hollysys, join CSIA as ‘partner’ members. Partners support CSIA because they recognize a strong control system integrator industry provides a low-risk channel to market for their products,” says Lowe. “Hollysys’ participation in CSIA is an opportunity to become acquainted with our Chinese colleagues.”

About Hollysys: Hollysys is an innovative Chinese company specialized in the development and manufacturing of distributed control systems, programmable logic controllers, nuclear power control systems, metro SCADA systems and high-speed railway signaling systems. Hollysys has more than 2,000 people engaged in R&D, manufacturing and engineering services to meet the requirements of thousands of customers worldwide. Hollysys Automation Technologies, Ltd. was listed on NASDAQ in August 2008.

About CSIA: The Control System Integrators Association (www.controls.org) provides its member-companies with the means to improve their business and executive management skills in support of the belief that being a good system integrator goes hand-in-hand with operating a good business. CSIA is proud to “raise the bar” in control system integration.
